Your one-page investment policy

A printable, reusable worksheet for goals, allocation, contributions and review rules.

SOFT COPIES | ALL LEVELS

01 / Purpose and priorities

Use this worksheet to document decisions before market headlines influence them. Complete it using your own circumstances. It is a planning aid, not personalised investment advice.

• My goal and why it matters: _____

• Target date and amount: _____

• Essential reserve and where it is held: _____

• Liabilities and commitments to account for: _____

02 / Risk and allocation

Describe both your ability to bear a loss and your likely reaction to it. List target allocations only after understanding each asset's risks and access conditions.

• Loss scenario I could absorb without missing the goal: _____

• Actions I would take in a severe market decline: _____

• Target allocation by asset class: _____

• Maximum exposure to one company or sector: _____

• Products I understand and allow: _____

03 / Contribution and rebalancing rules

Choose a contribution process you can maintain. Record when and why you will rebalance. Consider costs, tax and product restrictions before making changes.

• Contribution amount and frequency: _____

• Where contributions will go: _____

• Rebalancing review date or threshold: _____

• Costs and tax checks before a change: _____

04 / Review triggers

A review is different from an automatic transaction. Life changes may require a new plan; a temporary price move alone may not.

• Scheduled review date: _____

• Life events that require an earlier review: _____

• Evidence that would change my investment thesis: _____

• Documents and account records to retain: _____

05 / Decision log

Keep this log with the policy. Revisit the original reason for a decision before replacing it with a new narrative.

MAKE IT PRACTICAL
Date | decision | reason | evidence/source | cost | next review. Sign/date the policy and keep the previous version when you revise it.
